

I want to be able to choose individual channels instead of being forced into buying a whole bunch of channels that I don't want and in a lot of cases, can't block from my program guides (and thus my child gets to see what is in the program guide for that channel). Please enact regulations to keep cable and satellite "monopolies" from packaging and making me pay a higher price than I would normally pay for one or a few channels that I would watch in the package.
